There isn't anything lately in the work of at least seven world tourists to indicate that the trip sapped their pepper or skill. The seven are Crawford, Merkle, Benz, Weaver, Magee, Wingo and Doan.

The three games the Detroit won in New York are more than they have won on all the rest of the trip.

HIGH OUT AT THE PLATE TRYING TO STRETCH TRIPLE INTO A HOME RUN

NATIONALS TO PLAY NINE GAMES ABROAD IN A WEEK

Trip Starts With Double-Header in Boston Friday, and There Are Two Games Saturday—Shaw to Oppose Dauss Today.

By J. ED GRILLO.

Regardless of what the outcome of the final game with Detroit may be, the Nationals are sure to start on their long trip occupying first place.

The remarkable showing of the locals against the western teams has brought it to the front. Of the fourteen games the invaders have played here twelve have been won by the Griffins and there is an excellent chance of it being made thirteen out of fifteen today. The kind of ball the Nationals are playing cannot be beaten. The team's work seems to have become more sensational with every game and the chances are that it will make a clean sweep of the series with Detroit today.

Jim Shaw is Griffith's pitching selection, and judged on his recent performance the Tigers are doomed for another defeat. Dauss is to do the slabwork for the Tigers.

The Nationals leave for Boston late this afternoon and are scheduled to play five games with the Hub team in three days. Manager Griffith has been notified that a double-header will be staged Friday-Saturday. Memorial day, a game is scheduled for morning and afternoon, and the final game of the series will be played Monday. This series is going to prove quite a strain on the locals and undoubtedly will force Griffith to use some of his pitchers out of turn.

Johnson will work in one of the games tomorrow. No selection has been made for the other, but Engel or Bentley may be used.

After the Boston series the Nationals go to New York for three scheduled and one postponed game, so that nine games may be played in a week. After the New York series the Nationals go west, opening at St. Louis.

It must be dawning on the other clubs in the American League that Griffith has a much improved pitching staff this year. The acquisition of Doc Ayers and Jim Shaw has made a big difference in the team's showing. Ayers is a most consistent performer. He has been effective in every game he has worked in this spring and seems to show better form as the campaign progresses. His work against the Tigers yesterday was in many respects superior to anything he has shown this spring. Shaw, too, has shown a lot of ability. In fact, it is the opinion of most players and managers who have seen him in action that he will be a pitcher of the Johnson type before the season is ended. No other team in the circuit can boast of four such pitchers as Griffith is working regularly now.

The defensive work of the Nationals is nothing short of marvelous. There were several occasions yesterday when it was demonstrated how difficult it is to score on the locals. In the first inning, for instance, High hit a long drive to left center. It looked for all the world like a home run, and High tried for the circuit, but was nipped at the plate, thanks to brilliant playing by Shanks and McBride. Shanks recovered the ball quickly as possible and threw to McBride, who had run out into the field at the proper distance to make a throw to the plate. His peg was perfect, and Henry got the ball in time to prevent High from scoring.

In the second inning, with Burns on third and Moriarty on first, a double steal was attempted. Henry's throw to second was high, going over Morgan, who had been in close for a play at the plate. But McBride was backing up, caught the ball with a leap and heaved it home in time to cut off Burns, who tried to score.

Because of his ability to make long, timely drives, Howard Shanks is now known as "Clean-up Howard." In every one of the recent games Shanks has come through at certain stages of the game with a long hit. In the first and second games with Detroit he drove out triples which brought runs to his team, and in the fifth inning yesterday, with Gandil on second, he drove a home run far over High's head in center, which rolled to the fence and allowed him to make the circuit without much of an effort. It was the cleanest circuit drive that has been seen on the local grounds in a long while.

The Tigers had the tip the way to beat Ayers was to induce in a lot of bunting. Ayers' fielding, it was reported, was not of the best, but he made the Tigers look foolish by the brilliant manner he fielded his position. Ayers came here with the reputation of not being a competent fielder, but he has improved so much in this respect that there is no pitcher more clever in handling the ball when it comes into his territory than he. In the first inning yesterday he made an unusual play when he picked up Kavanaugh's grounder and ran across the field to first in time to retire the runner himself. On several other occasions he covered a lot of ground in fielding balls, and, incidentally, he came through with a hit in the fourth inning.

Every one of the runs the Nationals scored yesterday was shovelled over after two men were out. There were two out when Moeller scored in the first, and two had been retired when Morgan came home in the fourth. Foster and Milan had been retired in the fifth when Gandil doubled and Shanks hit for the circuit, and there were two out at the seventh and eighth when the locals scored their other runs.

If the team holds up its reputation for good work on the road the coming trip should be a most successful one, and it is possible for the Nationals to retain its present position, in which event its chances for landing the flag will be considerably increased.

Any team that scores a victory over Ayers will have to hit him. His perfect control adds much to his ability as a pitcher. Ayers has a lot of speed and his underhand delivery is proving a puzzle to batters, because it is so seldom that they face it. Warlop of the New York team is the only other pitcher in the league who has an underhand delivery, and Ayers has much more stuff than he.

While it is perfectly natural for patrons of the game to display a lot of enthusiasm over the present winning streak of the Nationals, they should be limited to give vent to their feeling by no other than natural means and the noise-making instruments which were in evidence yesterday ought to be barred.

Jack Bentley went another inning yesterday without being scored on, bringing the total to eighteen. The Sandy Spring youngster gives evidence of being a good pitcher, and it is not unlikely that he will be used on the present trip. In fact, Griffith is thinking seriously of using Bentley in one of the Boston games. The Red Sox never take kindly to a southpaw, and Bentley, if he is in good form, would stand an excellent chance of beating them.

The Nationals got under way in the very first inning when they scored two runs. The Tigers had been retired in order, though High hit for three bases in this inning, and died trying to stretch it into a home.

Moeller opened the second half of this round with a long drive to right, which netted two bases, because he slipped and fell in turning first. Foster walked, and Milan moved them both up with a sacrifice. Gandil was walked, filling the bases, and Moeller scored when Shanks drove out a long sacrifice fly. Morgan singled, scoring Foster, but McBride fanned.

In the fourth Morgan was walked and stole, scoring when Boehling singled.

In the fifth Gandil doubled and Shanks hit for a home run, netting two more runs. In the seventh a lot of misplays and walks allowed Moeller to score, and in the eighth Henry, who was walked, scored when High nudged Foster's line drive. The Tigers had several chances to score, but could not solve Ayers when a hit meant runs. The score:

All Games to Be Shown on Star's New Score Board

The Nationals will play two games with the Boston Red Sox tomorrow afternoon, the first game starting at 2 o'clock. Walter Johnson is slated to work in the opening battle. Saturday morning and afternoon the Nationals again will tackle the Red Sox, making four games in two days. These games and all played on the trip will be shown on the new Star scoreboard, the description coming from the pen of J. Ed Grillo, sporting editor of The Star, who is traveling with the team.

YALE DROPS EVERY MATCH.

PRINCETON, May 28.—Princeton won all six singles in the tennis match with Yale yesterday afternoon. All of the matches were close and three of the visitors made the Princetonians go to three sets to claim a victory. The best match of the day was on the second court between Kidder of Princeton and Capt. Cunningham of Yale. The Ell racket man won the first set at 6 to 3, due to his lobbing and his fine work in the back court. Kidder then changed his tactics and by a fast net game carried Cunningham off his feet, winning his two sets at 6 to 3 and 6 to 4. Church had little difficulty with Gates of Yale, taking the match in straight sets of 6 to 4 and 6 to 2.

HONUS WAGNER NEAR 3,000 MARK IN HITS

Honus Wagner is crowding close on the mark of 3,000 base hits as a big leaguer. Including last Monday's game, the incomparable Dutchman has a grand harvest of 2,987 hits made since he entered the National League arena in Louisville, 1899. He had 2,903 hits at the close of last season, and unofficial records gave him thirty-six, including last Monday. Since then he has made three hits, making a total of 2,966, and needs only three more to have 3,000. Also he has 704 stolen bases and 1,569 runs.
